

TagParty™ Players (PartyTaggers) Must Follow The TagParty™ Code of Conduct

(The Code is for your safety and enjoyment)

Rule 1: TagParty™ is a Non-Contact Sporting Game.

This means no physical contact between you and other PartyTaggers! Bad sportsmanship like behavior (disrespect for people or property, bad language, name calling, cheating etc.) will not be tolerated. Players must remember that TagParty is only a game.

Rule 2: No Covering the Receiver Dome / Water Collector.

Do not use anything to cover up the Receiver Dome / Water Collector thereby preventing you from receiving tags. If you want to avoid being tagged, you must use your defensive shields or take cover behind something. The Receiver Dome on the Tagger should always be at least six inches from your body, covering the Receiver Dome / Water Collector is cheating.

Rule 3: TagParty™ Game Area.

PartyTaggers must remain inside the marked game area, or the designated briefing area, at all times. When you are “Tagged Out”, or disqualified, you must hold your Tagger above your head and return to the briefing area.

Rule 4: The TagParty™ Crew is in Charge.

No Arguments, the Crews rulings and instructions are final. If you argue you don't play. On hearing 3 long whistle blows all PartyTaggers should immediately stop playing, get down on one knee and place their Tagger on the ground behind them – resume the game when you hear 3 short whistle blows, or follow instructions from the TagParty™ Crew.

Rule 5: Equipment Failure means Disqualification.

In the event that your Tagger shows an error message, or the game timer is different to the TagMaster's, you are disqualified from the ongoing game. Please make sure that your Tagger has started the game countdown before leaving the briefing area, and do not end or restart a game without instruction from one of the TagParty Crew.

Rule 6: TagParty™ is a Team Game.

TagParty™ can be individually competitive, however, in many of the games you must consider the success of the team first. Scoring is always Team 1st, Player 2nd.
